Palm Beach, July 26—A. C. aged negro and former General Wade Hampton of moderate army, was among the Christian Endeavor convention of the African Episcopal church here last Gogins, who formerly revere and who owns considerable property in this city, is now making home in Miami.

He was born in 1847 and went to the war with General Lee. He was present at the Appomattox surrender and said he would have seen General Grant had he not been collecting some food for Hampton.

He also participated in the American war, lost a finger and three of his arms in the American army in All three suffered imprisonment by the Germans, he said, and lost both arms at Champey.

Sensation Exploded
by Federal Experts

(By Associated Press.)
Gainesville, July 26—No frogs fell from the sky here Thursday night and Friday morning and so far as local experts on "frogology" have been able to ascertain, such a phenomenon never has occurred anywhere else.

It rained heavily here and the presence of thousands of small frogs hopping about Friday morning after the downpour resulted in the sending out of news stories to the effect that it had rained frogs.

The Smithsonian Institution, at Washington, and other authorities, declare that the presence of multitudes of small frogs after heavy rains often results in reports that frogs have fallen from the clouds but that the idea is all wrong.

The frogs were there before the downpour, hidden in cracks and crevices of the earth. An unusually heavy rain simply floods their hiding places and they are forced to abandon them and come out into the open or drown.

No White Slavery
Exists In Haiti

(By Associated Press.)
Geneva, Switzerland, July 26—The reply of Haiti to the list of questions regarding the white slave traffic sent to all members of the League was to the effect that such a thing as "white slavery" was unknown in that island, had never existed there and consequently Haitian officials had nothing to offer in reply to the questions.

An Advertisement Helped Her.
Mrs. Lucille Mackey, 16 Buena Vista St., Washington, Pa., writes: "Last winter my 3-year-old girl caught a bad cold which left her with a dry cough. It bothered her most at night and she would cough until she vomited. I think she must have had whooping cough. I saw an advertisement for Foley's Honey and Tar. I tried it and bought two bottles and her cough left her before she finished the second bottle. She had gotten awfully thin, but now she is as fat as ever." For sale by J. H. Haughton.

SPANISH OFFICERS

MELILLA DISASTER

(By Associated Press.)
Melilla, Morocco, July 26—Personal narratives of participants in the disaster of Mount Abraran and Tensaman indicate that the lack of precaution of the officers in charge of the operation was responsible for much of the damage done to Spanish prestige.

On June 2, according to eye-witnesses, Mount Abraran was occupied by Spanish troops without the slightest resistance. It is a position covered with the thickest kind of vegetation, among which large numbers of men could find cover. No attempt was made to reconnoiter the ground after the camping place had been chosen but detachments of men were told off to lay barbed wire around the camp while all the officers sat down to a meal.

A short time afterward the surrounding bush appeared absolutely thick with Moors, who opened fire on the group of officers, then penetrated the encampment, where they were joined by the mutinous 15th company of native police.

Numerous acts of bravery were done by both Spanish and faithful native troops, but the surprise was so sudden that it was impossible for the garrison to save the guns, which were carried off by the Moors. Then both Spanish and native troops fled precipitately, abandoning rifles, bayonets and baggage.

The casualties—comprising killed, wounded and prisoners—numbered over 300 and, if the landing detachment of a warship and forces from Cerinola and Melilla had not intervened to support the fleeing garrison it is possible the Spanish would have lost both Sidi-Dris and Tensaman.

The Moors apparently were acting under the guidance of foreign instructors, for their tactics were quite modern. Information has since come in that their ranks are strengthened by deserters from both the Spanish and French armies.

The Grand Today

Mildred Harris Chaplin is featured at the Grand theater today in "The Inferior Sex." She is ably supported by Milton Sills. The picture is magnificently staged, a strong plot, and the acting is superb. Following is the interesting review:

The honeymoon over, Knox Randall soon falls into his business with a vim and neglects his wife. He discovers that Porter Maddox has been paying marked attention to his wife Ailsa and augmented by his brother-in-law's statement to the same effect becomes convinced that his wife is holding clandestine meetings with Maddox. The brother discovers Ailsa visiting Maddox's yacht at night. Knox goes there but finds Clarissa his sister, there also. It is then learned that Maddox has been using Clarissa for the purpose of gaining valuable Wall Street secrets and had been prevented by Ailsa. Knox then

In Capital City

(By Associated Press.)
Berlin, July 26—"The Street of Many Fakirs"—the section of the Friedrichstrasse between Unter den Linden and Koch streets—may soon lose the right to its exotic title, won by virtue of the varied and questionable commerce which thrives upon its sidewalks and crossings, for an agitation has been started to "clean it up."

Every article from jumping-jacks to fine Oriental rugs may be purchased from the vendors who infest the street, eternally crying their wares.

The chief complaint against the character of the street, however, is that thieves use it continually as a clearing-place to market their "hauls." Not infrequently a ragged unkempt man will offer most expensive imported fabrics for suiting, in odd bolt lots, at ridiculous figures. Much of this stuff, the police feel certain, has been stolen, but it is difficult to fix the crime on the street vendor.

Victims of the various drug habits find their chief sources of supply on this street.

The greatest need of the season is an oil, or gas, or electric stove that will get not enough to cook the food without getting hot enough to wilt the cook.

He realizes how valuable his wife is to him and they both start life anew.

British Are Using
Gas of Oak Logs

(By Associated Press.)
London, July 26—Gas made from old oak logs is now being supplied successfully to the inhabitants of Steyning in Sussex. Other towns are rapidly following suit. It is claimed that this wood gas has practically the same heating and lighting properties as coal gas and its use means a saving of more than half a dollar per 1,000 cubic feet to the consumer.

The Steyning gas works being threatened with closure owing to the prohibitive price of coal, about $5 a ton, the carbonization of wood was resorted to as an experiment, with the result that wood gas has been definitely adopted as an illuminant until the price of coal comes down.

At Birmingham, old road paving blocks have been converted into wood gas with equally satisfactory results.

Men have been so interested in the length of skirts that they have neglected their own interests and permitted manufacturers to cut half a yard from the tail of skirts.

PEOPLE used to be secretly envious of the young fellow who came tearing up the street and stopped his car with a jerk.

Now they are inclined to criticize such abuse of tires. A mark of the growing consciousness about tires—their service, their work, their value.

This same respect for a good tire is the reason why the four-square tire dealer has passed up odds and ends, "job lots", "seconds", "cut prices"—and come out squarely with the standard quality service of U. S. Tires.

He is getting a bigger, and also better, tire business than he ever had before.
